Aircraft technician salary in air india

Whether you're installing a heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) unit in a new home or upgrading your existing system, it's important to research your options. One option is to install an air handler. Keep reading to learn how air handlers work and how they differ from other HVAC options.

How Does an Air Handler Work?An air handler does just as its name implies - it handles the air in your house. Inside of the air handler is a blower, which moves the air throughout various parts of the home. Most times, air handlers are installed inside the house and move both warm and cool air. When looking at an air handler, it's not uncommon to mistake it for a furnace.

What's the Difference Between an Air Handler and Air Conditioner?An air handler doesn't produce cool air. Instead, it distributes the conditioned air produced by the air conditioner. The air handler can also work with a heat pump to distribute warm air during the cooler months. An air handler circulates air inside your home to help the heat pump maintain your desired temperature.

What's the Difference Between an Air Handler and Furnace?A furnace produces heat by burning fuel. This fuel usually comes in the form of natural gas, propane or oil. Inside the furnace is a blower, which distributes the heat throughout the home via ductwork. An air handler doesn't produce heat. Instead, it works in conjunction with a heat pump to move heated air throughout the house. The heat pump pulls heat out of the indoor air during the summer, and using refrigerant, moves the heat energy outside of the home. As a result, the air handler blows cooled air throughout the house. During the winter, the heat pump uses its refrigerant to capture heat energy from the outside air and then moves it inside. This causes the air handler to blow warm air to heat the home. This confuses some people because they don't realize that even when it's cold outside, there is still heat in the air.

What's the Difference Between an Air Handler and Blower?Although an air handler has a blower, it is not designed to operate solely as a blower. It has many other components. If you're looking for a conventional heating and cooling system, you most likely won't need an air handler. On the other hand, if you're shopping for a heat pump, an air handler can be used to improve indoor comfort levels.

What Are the Different Parts of an Air Handler?Most air handlers have filters along with mixing chambers and dampers. It has an evaporator coil that is cold during the summer and removes humidity when the air passes over it. During the winter, the coil is warm and puts heat into the air as the air passes over it. The blower motor on an air handler moves the warm or cool air through your home's ductwork. This ductwork is connected to the air handler by an air supply and return plenum connections. Air handlers also have a filter that minimizes the number of particulates that are circulated in the indoor air.

Air India aircraft maintenance technicians, employees who are on a fixed-term contract with the national carrier, have threatened to go on strike on January 17 over long-pending issues such as employment contract renewal, salary revision and like. Among the jobs handled by aircraft maintenance technicians are aircraft fueling and readying for departure, marshalling, maintenance jobs etc. "Most of us earn a minimum wage of INR 25,000 and despite that, the airline included our salaries too for cuts imposed under economic measures. Since May 2020, a sum out of INR 1100 is being deducted from our salary. We have demanded a reimbursement," said a technician, requesting anonymity. Air India aircraft maintenance technicians, employees who are on a fixed-term contract with the national carrier, have threatened to go on strike. He added that about 1,700 of them across India will opt for a "tool down" agitation a week from now. On Monday, January 10, a letter listing their demands was sent to the CEO of Air India Engineering Services Ltd (AIESL), the airline's engineering subsidiary. The said technicians comprise about 50 % of AIESL staffers, said an Air India source. "Many of us have completed five years with Air India and our contracts will come up for renewal. The airline management has been silent on our long pending queries," the technician added. There seems to be more trouble for Tata Group as employees of Air India's most consistently profitable subsidiary Air India Express have given the notice to go on an indefinite strike from January 15, pressing their demands related to contract re-negotiation and changes to COVID related pay revisions. ALSO READ - Air India Express Cabin Crew threaten to go on strike indefinitely Over 500 cabin crew under the Air India Express Employees Union (AIXEU) are likely to go on strike as they allege that the management has shown discrimination while issuing contracts. The demands listed by the union are: 1. Renew the contract term of the cabin crew employees on par with the contracts issued to other departmental staff for 5 years. 2. Comply with the order of the Court of State Commissioners for Persons with Disabilities and immediately take steps to allow Mr Basil to join the Company. 3. Ensure that steps are taken to address the concerns of the female staff in the company. 4. Ensure that there are no inordinate delays in processing career progression as well as in the matter of contract renewals. 5. Take actions to stop that the dictatorial and arbitrary practices of the Management Pilot 6. Ensure that this and transparent procedure is practised in matters of recruitment.
